Outer Space Talks Urged By Bulganin

Opposes Ministers' Parleys Prior To Summit Sessions

MOSCOW (P)—The Soviet government has notified President Eisenhower officially that it will discuss fully the control of outer space as part of a package deal including the abolition of nuclear weapons and the reduction of armed forces.

Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin, in a communication delivered yesterday in Washington, said the Soviet Union accepted the idea of preparing for a summit conference through normal diplomatic channels but ruled out any prior foreign ministers' conference because of Soviet opposition to Secretary of State Dulles.

Bulganin, replying to President Eisenhower's Jan. 12 letter, proposed a nine-point agenda for a summit meeting of East and West leaders.

Letter Text Broadcast

Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Leonid F. Il'yichev told a news conference today that the Soviet government is ready to participate in a summit meeting based on either broad or restrict representation.

(Moscow radio began broadcasting the text of Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's letter to President Eisenhower just after the Moscow news conference.)

Here are the nine points Bulganin proposed for a conference:

1. Immediate suspension of atomic and hydrogen bomb tests.
2. Renunciation by the Soviet Union, the United States and Britain of the use of nuclear weapons.
3. Establishment of an atom-free zone in Central Europe.
4. Conclusion of a nonaggression pact between the signatories of the Warsaw and NATO pacts.
5. Reduction of foreign troops in Germany and other European countries.
6. An agreement on the prevention of a sudden attack.
7. Discussion of measures to broaden international trade ties.
8. End the propaganda war.
9. Consider the problems of easing tension in the Near and Middle East.

Dulles, Envoy Confer On Plans For Session

WASHINGTON (P)—Secretary of State Dulles and Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson open today a series of U.S.-Soviet relations and negotiations for holding an East-West summit conference later this year.

With a new letter from Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin before them for study, they may develop a new U.S. challenge to the Soviet Union to undertake serious diplomatic negotiations for a top-level meeting.

Bulganin's 17-page letter, the newest in a series he has addressed to President Eisenhower, was delivered to the State Department yesterday. Both the State Department and the White House declined comment until the letter can be translated and studied.

At the same time, the department was informed that the new Soviet ambassador to this country, Mikhail A. Menshikov, is expected here Wednesday or Thursday. He replaces George Zarubin, who left last week for home.

Soviet Sputnik Reports Fail To Show New Data

BRUSSELS, Belgium (P)—Russia's reports on her two Sputniks arrived at the International Geophysical Year headquarters today but Secretary General Marcel Nicolet said they contained "nothing new."

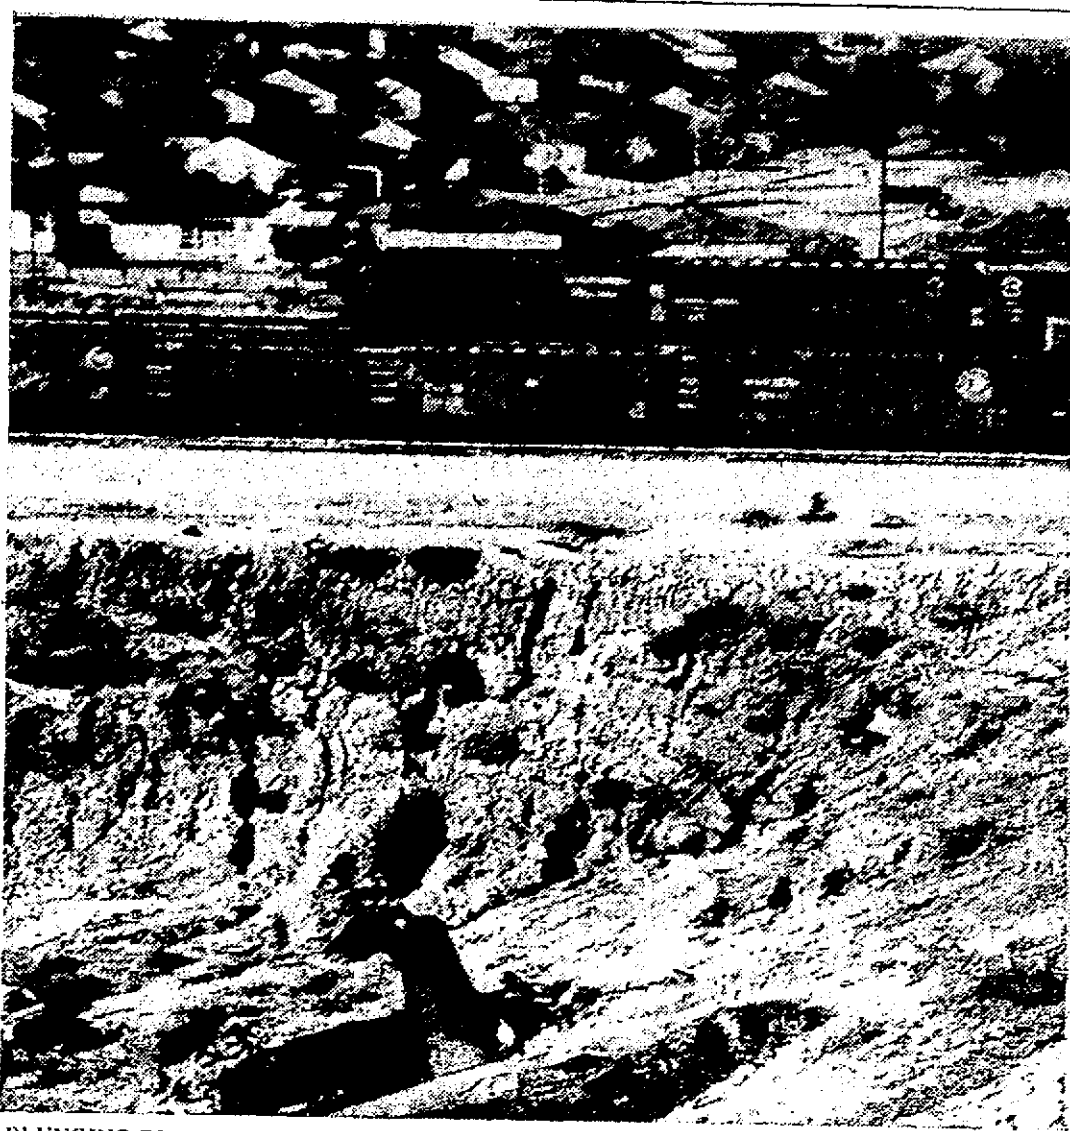

"I received them this morning and I read them immediately," Nicolet reported. "They bring nothing new and nothing more than what we already knew on the subject."

"The reports contain no numerical data."

Woman Killed At Road Barrier

PADUCAH, Ky. (P)—A woman was shot to death at a roadblock near here today as officers spread a new dragnet for an escaped gunman after his companion attempted suicide, and a kidnapped Missouri State trooper was freed, unharmed.

Kentucky, Illinois and Missouri officers joined in the new search for escaped gunman Carl W. Burton, 24, of Redwood City, Calif. Miss Jewell English, 24, of Paducah, was shot when a car in which she was riding sped through a roadblock.

Bonn Refuses Funds To Pay Allied Troops

BERLIN (P)—West Germany stood adamant today in her refusal to pay in the future for support of Allied troops in this country.

Bonn officials turned a cold shoulder to an appeal by NATO Secretary General Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium, who flew here to try to mediate the bitter dispute with Britain, the United States and France.

After conferring with Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano, Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss and other German leaders, Spaak tersely told newsmen it had been a frank discussion on "a very difficult theme."

A German official was more explicit. "Nobody changed his position," he said. "We are as far from the idea of paying for the maintenance of U.S.-Soviet relations and defense as we were before the meeting. It was an unpleasant discussion of chances for holding an East-West summit conference later this year."

The main bone of contention is Britain's demand for $33 million marks (140 million dollars) to help support British troops in Germany in the next fiscal year. The Germans contend further payments to the Allies will endanger the buildup of the new West German defense establishment. The Allies claim West Germany should help pay for the foreign troops helping to protect Germany since the Bonn regime has failed to bring its armed forces to anywhere near the strength promised NATO.

Plunge Kills U. S. Worker

WASHINGTON (P)—A Department of Labor employee died today in a plunge from a seventh floor window of the Labor Department building.

She was identified as Mrs. Miriam E. Dickinson, 36, of Arlington, Va., a native of Johnston, Pa.

Police said she left no notes. Two persons in an office across a courtyard saw her fall.

Fellow workers said Mrs. Dickinson had been depressed since her husband, George R. Dickinson, was promoted last month from clerk-stenographer to secretary.

Nixon Claims GOP Outlook On Upgrade

WASHINGTON (P)—Vice President Nixon, rated by some politicians as the best bet for the Republican presidential nomination in 1960, said today that the party's outlook is on the upgrade now.

"We reached our low point in morale and public support just before the State of the Union message," Nixon said in an interview, adding that Eisenhower's message to Congress "gave the party a shot in the arm."

He said a closed-door conference of the Republican National Committee here last week had raised hopes of recapturing control of the Senate and House in this year's elections. Democrats, however, hold majorities in both ends of Congress.

The Republican conference was followed by a weekend meeting of the Democratic Advisory Council, which issued a series of statements criticizing the administration on economic, defense and foreign policy stands.

The Democrats said the Eisenhower administration had adopted a defeatist attitude toward the business recession.

The council also voted 11-2 for a statement urging that Congress give "renewed consideration" to more civil rights legislation, to extend to other fields the voting rights guarantees given in the 1957 law.

Warmup Due By Weekend

BALTIMORE (P)—Five-day forecast: Temperatures will average 4 or 5 degrees below normal. Continued cold Tuesday and Wednesday and warmer over the last of the week. Snow flurries in the mountains Tuesday and possibly some rain or snow over the area about Thursday or Friday. Normal highs: 23-44. Normal lows: 17-22 in Western Maryland.

Defense Fund Approval Set By Nightfall

WASHINGTON (P)—Senators Knowland (R-Calif.) and Mansfield (D-Mont.) predicted today that the Senate will pass a $1,410,000,000 emergency defense money bill before the day ends.

Earlier demands by some senators that another one or two billion dollars be added to the money bill were cooled both by satisfaction at the successful orbiting of the U.S. Explorer satellite and by the insistence of Senate leaders that the present urgent requests should not be delayed by additions.

"I think the bill will go through now just as it cleared the Appropriations Committee," Mansfield, assistant Democratic floor leader, said in an interview.

"These funds are needed and should move ahead as rapidly as possible," Knowland, the Republican leader, said.

The measure now carries $1,250,000,000 of new funds to step up programs for ballistic missiles, nuclear submarines that can launch some kinds of missiles, defense aircraft and missiles, and additional air bases.

Yemen Prince Seen Joining New Republic

CAIRO (P)—The crown prince of Yemen was expected here today to associate his little medieval kingdom on the Red Sea with the new United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria.

Student celebrations in the oil-rich sheikhdom of Kuwait, which is under British protection, called for that they area on the Persian Gulf to join the disconnected union. The extent of Kuwait government support for the demonstration was not immediately apparent.

An Egyptian spokesman said Crown Prince Seif el Islam el Badr "will announce that Yemen will adhere to the republic."

Whether that meant full membership or merely federation with the union proclaimed Saturday was not clear.

The Yemen legation said it knew nothing of the reports. Cairo radio said the Crown Prince would arrive today.

Egyptian President Nasser of Egypt and Syrian President Sukkri Kuwailid said in their proclamation "any Arab state desirous of joining them in the union" or in a federation would be welcome. The offer of federation was interpreted as a bid to the monarchs of Yemen, Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Iraq, Libya and Morocco to join without giving up their thrones.

Yemen's ailing, 62-year-old King Imam Ahmed, is not expected to be willing to relinquish his iron rule that makes the sun-baked, South Dakota-sized nation one of the world's few remaining absolute monarchies.

'Horror Movies' Bring Blast By Illinois Senator

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) declared yesterday he was "horrified" at advertisements for "horror movies."

In telegrams to municipal officials in the Washington area, he said:

"In view of the terrible outbreaks of juvenile crime, movies such as these are advertised as being would seem to be pandering to and a stimulant of the sadistic impulses of impressionable boys and girls."

He asked each jurisdiction whether such films could be shown under local ordinances, and whether there is any official or voluntary organization "seeking to persuade the exhibitor not to show such films or the public not to patronize them."

Woman Hunted In Slaying Case

KANSAS CITY (P)—The bullet-riddled body of a man was found Sunday in an apartment here and police issued a pickup order for a blonde woman and two children who had been living with him.

The man, about 33, was tentatively identified by police as Richard L. Miller. Police believed he had been slain Saturday night.

Checking on the man's motorcar, which bore Maryland tags, police said the tags had been issued to a Richard L. Miller of Silver Spring, Md.

FCC Members Deny Misconduct Charge

House Group Opens Probe Of Activities

Chairman Accused Of Getting Paid For Airplane Trip

WASHINGTON (INS)—Federal Communications Chairman John Doerfer was accused today of charging both the government and an Oklahoma City television station for a $165.12 airplane trip he never took.

The accusation against Doerfer came after two other FCC members, Rosel H. Hyde and Robert T. Barley, admitted they have received gifts and travel expenses from TV-radio industry groups but denied it influenced their judgment.

Criminal Offense Charged

A House Commerce Subcommittee investigating conduct of FCC officials made the charge against Doerfer at a stormy hearing that found Republicans revealing that the subcommittee staff has accused the FCC chairman of committing a criminal offense.

Rep. John Bennett (R-Mich.) read part of a controversial staff memorandum saying the evidence "would appear clearly to demonstrate" that Doerfer's charge to the government for travel expenses for which he had been reimbursed by private sources "constitutes a criminal offense."

Bennett and other Republicans rose to Doerfer's defense and urged that he be given an opportunity to cross-examine witnesses presenting the testimony.

However, Chairman Morgan (D-Mo.) refused the GOP request and noted that such procedure was not allowed by any other Congressional committee.

"Mr. Doerfer is not on trial," Moulder said. He added: "That authority lies with another branch of government and they may or may not exercise it."

When Doerfer himself tried to speak at the hearing, Moulder banged his gavel down and said: "The chair will not tolerate any more vexatious interruptions."

Helped Dedicate Station

The expenses in question involved a return trip to Washington for Doerfer and his wife from Oklahoma City where he helped dedicate Television Station KWTU.

However, Robert K. Richards, former vice president of the National Association of Broadcasters, testified that his organization paid Doerfer for expenses involved in flying from Oklahoma City directly to Spokane, Wash., for an address to the organization and then back to Washington.

Doerfer, who is to testify later, has called the allegations against him "inaccurate and misleading."

Pension Sought By Virginia Vets

NORFOLK, Va. (P)—Virginia Veterans of World War I have gone on record in favor of a $100 monthly pension for honorably discharged veterans of all wars when they reach the age of 62.

A resolution urging legislation to carry out such a pension program was passed here yesterday by 143 delegates to the annual convention of the Department of Virginia, Veterans of World War I.

The delegates also called for an increase in the minimum income limitation for the pensions of all disabled veterans.

Killian Asserts 'Hot Minds' Need Preference In Schools

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (P)—President Eisenhower's science adviser today called on Americans "to emphasize the hot rodders among our youth and to encourage the hot minds."

But also, Dr. James R. Killian Jr. said, we mustn't try to encourage in a numbers race with the Soviet Union for scientists and engineers. Emphasis should be on specialists who also have general education to fulfill democratic needs and goals.

Plane Crashes Stir Demand For Probe

LOS ANGELES (P)—Collision of two military planes over suburban Norwalk, killing 48 persons, brought a demand today for immediate action on the part of the secretary of defense.

County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn noted that the Norwalk disaster was the site of one of three aerial collisions over southern California in as many days.

"I am sending a telegram to the secretary of defense, asking that he appoint a special investigating court not merely to fix the blame for the crash but to study the increasing problems of air traffic in metropolitan areas," Hahn said.

"The court should be empowered to make new rules, if necessary, to protect the lives and property of our residents."

"The 1957 record is, of course, definitely encouraging," said the Gov. Goodwin J. Knight earlier National Safety Council, which called for a full-scale congressional investigation of the figures today. "It is an investigation of airway traffic reflects an unmistakable improvement in traffic behavior and enforcement."

Deaths on the highways last year compared with 39,628 in 1956, which was one of the highest on record. The 1,100 fewer deaths in 1957 was the second largest reported in any year since the end of World War II and was surpassed only by a decrease of approximately 2,400 deaths in 1954, the council said.

The 1957 mileage death rate (deaths per 100 million vehicle miles) was 5.9, compared with the previous all-time low of 6.3 in 1956 and 1954.

Churchill Plans Visit With Ike, Dates Not Fixed

WASHINGTON (P)—The White House said today Sir Winston Churchill will accept an invitation to be guests of the President and Mrs. Eisenhower at the White House.

Final arrangements and dates have not been set, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters.

Some of Sir Winston's paintings are being shown in this country, Hagerty said they will be at the Smithsonian Institution toward the end of April.

Hungarian Red Minister Dies

VIENNA (INS)—Hungarian Foreign Minister Imre Horvath was reported today to have died after a long and serious illness.

The death of the 57-year-old Communist official was announced by Radio Budapest.

Horvath had held a series of key diplomatic posts for the Hungarian satellite regime before he was appointed foreign minister in July 1956. He was one of the people who played a role in the Soviet bloodbath that followed it.

Set To Try Again With Small Ball

Larger Moons Due If Navy Succeeds, Observers Assert

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (P)—It was widely and reliably reported today that an early launching of a basketball-size "moon" will be tried with the Vanguard missile.

One Vanguard test vehicle is being prepared for launching with a 6.4-inch, 3½-pound grapefruit size satellite in its nose.

The Navy had planned to launch at least two more experimental miniature moons before moving up to the larger, fully instrumented sphere.

Could Be Last Small One
But recently the impression has solidified among persons in touch with Vanguard personnel that the forthcoming launching will be the last with the small-size satellites.

These reports say that particularly if the small-moon launching is successful, the next Vanguard try—probably sometime in March—will carry a 2½-pound, 20-inch satellite.

Such an effort is against the better judgment of some of the most experienced men involved in missile work here. Opponents of a "crash" Vanguard effort hold that this is a sophisticated, difficult scientific program that cannot be rushed to a conclusion.

They argue that the only purpose in hurrying the Navy's program is for propaganda purposes.

"If a propaganda weapon is what the people in Washington want they should have gone ahead long ago with the Army Jupiter-C development," one missile expert, who asked not to be identified, said.

"Or the Navy should have taken the old Viking rocket and gone ahead with it," he added. "If all they wanted was to put something up into the sky before the Russians did it, that way they could have done it long ago."

To observers here it is evident that the Vanguard workers, many of them young scientists only a few years out of college, are under heavy strain both because of large work loads and because of worry.

They will not discuss their problems publicly. They have been told that the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington will do the talking.

Public Expects Too Much
But from their casual observations one learns that they sometimes feel that:

1. The public is expecting too much.

2. The brass in Washington may be pushing too hard.

The Vanguard crews bowed to mechanical difficulties and adverse weather.

They dismantled the 31-foot second stage for repairs. Meanwhile, the Army moved in with its Jupiter-C and, last Friday, launched the first U.S. satellite.

Although the Navy men were glad to see the Army succeed, this could not be called a boost for Vanguard crew morale.

Over the past weekend it was apparent that the Vanguard has been reassembled. It is standing tall and straight in its launch stand.

The Army has a tall missile ready in its nearby launching stand too. It may be another 70-foot Jupiter-C, or just the 55-foot Redstone first stage rocket. Army missile expert Werner von Braun has said a second Army launching could come at any time.

One Vanguard worker said, "The public now has the idea that putting the little sphere into an orbit is our main assignment. It is not."

"We are still flying test birds, figuring out how to make them reliable. The chances are thousands to one against achieving an orbit in these tests—but if we don't get an orbit, sure enough the people will say we have failed."

Bandit Is Loser After Trying To Rob Taxi Driver

INDIANAPOLIS (P)—A would-be robber who tried to hold up taxicab driver Ross G. Graham with a cap pistol took a net loss of $4.85 on the deal.

Graham said the man gave him a $10 bill for the $1.15 fare and the taxicab driver took out his money to make change.

"I'll take that," the rider told Graham. But Graham, looking at the toy gun, said, "Not with that." The man left his $10, grabbed four $1 bills and fled.

Alcorn Cites Fund Raising Plan Periled

Butler Statement Under Fire, Breach Of Faith Charged

WASHINGTON (AP)—A squabble between national party chairmen threatened today to nullify a tentative plan to raise more political campaign funds from rank-and-file voters.

Without disclosing details, Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler said that "an important development" in political financing would be announced by outside sources in two or three weeks. He said it would involve "grass roots" support of the two parties.

Republican Chairman Meade Alcorn promptly accused Butler of a "shocking breach of faith" in mentioning the plan during a TV-radio interview.

"It may well result in the collapse of the proposal," Alcorn said in Hartford, Conn.

A disagreement between Butler and Leonard W. Hall, then GOP chairman, ended a possibly similar plan in 1956. That proposal envisioned a privately financed advertising campaign to persuade citizens to contribute to the party of their choice. Four members of each party were to serve as sponsors.

Butler accused Hall of sabotaging that proposal. Hall denied this, and said Butler killed the plan by announcing it before arrangements were completed.

Butler could not be reached for comment on Alcorn's criticism, which indicated that the new plan is similar to the 1956 proposal.

Alcorn said he intended to re-examine the Republican position in regard to the plan "in the light of Mr. Butler's utterly indefensible breach of a firm commitment with me."

Backers See Sales Tax In Virginia Dead

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—That the state-wide sales tax is dead for this session of the General Assembly was being conceded privately today by supporters of the measure.

The last weak props under their hopes were knocked off by the revelation that the Legislature will have a sizeably larger chunk of money to appropriate than was contemplated by former Gov. Thomas B. Stanley's budget.

Nevertheless, there was a move underway today to marshal support for a local option sales tax law—one to give the counties a right to impose such a tax if they wish. It is expected to come into the open Tuesday.

Cornellville Man Dies In Auto Mishap

PARIS, Va. (AP)—State Police today reported the death of Roy Melvin Strawn, 29, of Cornellville, Pa., in an automobile accident two miles south of here last night.

A car in which Strawn was riding went out of control and plunged off State Highway 17. The police said the car was driven by Arthur B. Ford, a soldier stationed at Ft. Eustis, Va. Ford was injured.

Soviet demands for a summit meeting before April, gave rise to speculation that Moscow may be ready for advance consultations through diplomatic channels.

An interview published in London last week quoted Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev that Russia was willing to wait a little while if the Western powers wanted more time. There were indications Bulganin's letter took a similar line.

The present attitude here seems to be that if there is any chance at all of getting a summit conference on reasonable conditions then the U.S. government should do everything possible to bring it about.

Trooper Released, Gunman Ends Life

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP)—A routine auto check that turned into a dramatic kidnapping ended for Missouri State Trooper William Little late last night after one of his kidnappers attempted suicide and the other fled on foot.

Police from Kentucky, Illinois and Missouri spread a new dragnet for the escaped gunman, Carl W. Burton, 24, Redwood City, Calif., after a tense 30-hour manhunt for the abducted Little ended with the easy-going trooper's voice coming over the radio of his stolen police cruiser.

Little said they handcuffed him to a chair and later to a bed before Burton left on foot about 5 p.m. Davis was to take Shelton's auto, and apparently planned to take Shelton along as another hostage.

But Little said Davis later watched a television show in which Paducah Police Chief Rullie Elliott mentioned stiff penalties under the federal kidnapping law in making an appeal for community aid in the search. Kidnaping and auto theft charges had been filed against both men.

Apparently frightened, Davis told Little he was going to commit suicide. "He said he couldn't serve any time in prison," Little said.

The trooper said Davis then freed him and took him and Shelton outside at gunpoint, left them and went to the side of the house where he shot himself.

Little said Burton appeared to be the leader in the affair from the start. He quoted Davis as saying, "Some are leaders and some are followers and I'm a follower of a bad leader."

Davis, father of four children, had served five years in San Quentin Prison on a robbery and assault to commit murder conviction. He was a voluntary mental patient at the age of 16.

Senator Asks For Relief To Aid Railroads

WASHINGTON, (INS)—The Senate Surface Transportation Subcommittee chairman urges curtailment of "government regulation" to give relief to the nation's "sick" railway system.

Sen. George Smathers (D., Fla.), said in a TV broadcast that "under present conditions railroads cannot survive."

Smathers said the rail system was a "key factor in the national defense picture," and declared his subcommittee would hold hearings "to solve a critical problem which touches us all."

He said federal, state and port authorities have "over regulated" rail companies while trucks, ships and planes have cut heavily into rail line profits.

Plane Crashes

The four-engine MATS transport, carrying service personnel and reservists, had taken off from nearby Long Beach Municipal Airport for McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., five minutes earlier. All 41 aboard were killed.

The twin-engine Navy Neptune had departed from the Los Alamitos Naval Air Station, a few miles away, about 15 minutes before the crash. Aboard the bomber were eight reservists on a routine training flight. Two survived.

The two aircraft fell some 2½ miles apart.

The Navy bomber crashed in an abandoned clay pit, missing blocks of homes by a few hundred feet.

The transport, disintegrating as it fell, hit in one of the busiest sections of Norwalk. Its tail section crushed a service station and its fuselage ripped into the parking lot and garage of the sheriff's office substation across the street.

A 23-year-old housewife, Mrs. Edith Hernandez, was decapitated by a flying piece of wreckage.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Safe-crackers took 750 dollars in cash today, but caused a loss of more than $20,000.

Truman Denies He Offered To Back Eisenhower For Presidency In 1948

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman says he never actually offered to back President Eisenhower for the presidency.

In fact, he said in a televised interview aired yesterday, he had warned Eisenhower against seeking the office.

In his book "Crusade in Europe," Eisenhower wrote that at the time of the Potsdam conference in 1945 Truman, then president, told him: "General, there is nothing that you may want that I won't try to help you get. That definitely and specifically includes the presidency in 1948."

Eisenhower said that at the time he treated the remark as "a very splendid joke" and replied: "Mr. President, I don't know who will be your opponent for the presidency, but it will not be I."

Truman defeated Thomas E. Dewey to win re-election in 1948. He did not seek a third term in 1952, when Eisenhower was elected over Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic candidate.

Truman made his comment in a See It Now report televised last evening over the CBS network. The interview, moderated by Ed-

Firemen Cite Rt. 36 Danger

Members of the Allegany-Garrett Firemen's Association met yesterday at the Barton Fire Hall and discussed the importance of State Route 36 between Frostburg and Westernport.

Paul Hahorlien, president, said the association went on record and adopted a resolution urging that Route 36 between Westernport and Frostburg be considered the No. 1 road rebuilding project in Allegany County in next year's road program.

It was stated that traffic on the road is increasing steadily. In the vicinity of Valley High School, as well as at several other important points along the route, definite hazards exist, members noted.

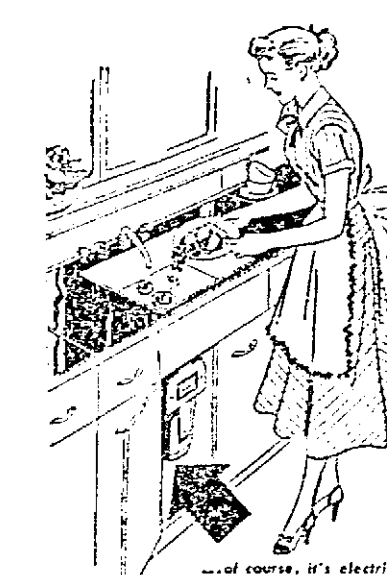

Copies of the resolution were directed to the Maryland State Roads Commission, Sen. Charles M. See and members of the county delegation to the General Assembly.

School, Tax Bills Up For Passage

By HERB LITTLE

CHARLESTON, S.C. — Nearly all of the school and tax bills at issue in this 30-day session of the Legislature were crowded at passage stage on the House calendar today.

The House met at 1 p.m. and the Senate at 2 p.m. as the Legislature reconvened to begin its last four days. Barring an extended session, which would be limited to completing action on the budget, the adjournment deadline is midnight Thursday.

Prospects were fairly good that some financial help for the public schools would come of this session. There were two choices: increase the state money going into the county school systems or help the counties help themselves over the long pull by reappraisal of property for local tax purposes.

Of course the Legislature might do both, either or neither.

On other matters, the West Virginia University Medical Center were restored to the bill during seemed likely to be voted some amendment action on the floor financial help for completion of Saturday, cutting the measure's construction, but the prospects for estimated annual yield from 9½ the Road Commission looked million to 7½ million.

The Democrats in control of both houses appeared to have abandoned — if they ever seriously held — the idea of voting any substantial increase in the outlay for highway construction.

Up for passage in the House were a bill to make an additional 5½ million in state money available to the county school systems in the coming fiscal year and five tax bills. The tax measures, amounting to roughly 10 million dollars, would raise the money for the additional public school help, the proposed revaluation program, and aid to the Medical Center.

The House's school finance bill started out as a straight state grant to provide a raise for teachers at an estimated cost of 5½ million.

But it picked up amendments along the way. Counties now would have to meet certain requirements to qualify for the money. Once they got it, they would have the option of using it for certain school purposes besides raising teacher pay.

Basis for distribution of the money still would be $500 for each teacher with a college degree and $225 for each non-degree teacher. Those amounts were in the original bill to provide, on a nine-month pay basis, raises of $40 a month for degree teachers and $25 a month for those without degrees.

The House also had at passage level its own bill for a mandatory reappraisal by the tax commissioner of all real and personal property, other than public utility-owned property. Like the Senate version, the House bill calls for a state appropriation of at least 1½ million a year for three years to pay 80 per cent of the cost of the undertaking. The counties would have to pay the other 20 per cent.

Motivated mainly by the desire to help counties raise more local money for schools through property taxes, the bill also would help county courts and municipalities, which likewise share in the property levies. The long-range revenue potential has been estimated at between 25 and 30 million in additional yearly tax income.

While the House had its reappraisal bill at passage stage to measure, day, it was possible the delegates would hold the bill over to let an irrevocable part of the bill. The House later voted 64-16 to reconsider its action on the amendment. The Senate bill contains no such provision. Originally identical, the bills were intended to increase gross sales tax revenue by 2½ million a year.

It was uncertain how much Deem's amendment would add was one to change the consumers' tax law. It would take away exemptions now enjoyed by contractors and retailers on purchases of goods and services required in their businesses.

Originally, the bill also would have repealed similar exemptions now granted to manufacturers and farmers. But these exemptions were restored to the bill during seemed likely to be voted some amendment action on the floor financial help for completion of Saturday, cutting the measure's construction, but the prospects for estimated annual yield from 9½ the Road Commission looked million to 7½ million.

Del. Clark (D-Mercer) put through the amendment to restore the manufacturing exemption which was adopted 52-37. Clark said a measure to repeal the manufacturing exemption would be much less smoke pouring from factory chimneys.

The House had a choice today of two bills to repeal the present 5 per cent exemption under the gross sales tax law. The House bill was at passage stage and a Senate-approved version was one step behind.

There was quite a difference between the two. Under an amendment by Del. Deem (R-Baltimore), the House bill would extend the gross sales tax to professional men and women, now exempt.

On the 37-38 roll call by which the House adopted the Deem amendment Saturday, 22 of the 31 voting delegates abstained from voting. They asked to be excused because of personal interest in the measure.

But the amendment was not yet an irrevocable part of the bill. The House later voted 64-16 to reconsider its action on the amendment. The Senate bill contains no such provision. Originally identical, the bills were intended to increase gross sales tax revenue by 2½ million a year.

It was uncertain how much Deem's amendment would add was one to change the consumers' tax law. It would take away exemptions now enjoyed by contractors and retailers on purchases of goods and services required in their businesses.

Baltimore Police Nab GIs In Act Of Robbery

BALTIMORE, P. — Because an officer got suspicious of a soldier lurking in an alley, two teenage servicemen were being held on charges of conspiring to rob two fellow soldiers.

Police yesterday charged Pvt. Richard L. Smith, 17, and Pvt. Bernard J. Heistand, 18, with conspiring to assault and rob, and accused Smith of carrying a deadly weapon. They are stationed at Ft. Meade.

The intended victims were identified as Pvt. Donald P. Woolsey, 17, and Pvt. Ronald R. Browne, 18. Both are stationed at Aberdeen Proving Ground.

Patrolman William Reival testified in Central Police Court that he and Patrolman William Johnson were on the beat Saturday night when they noticed a soldier standing in an alley.

Officers searched the youth, whom they identified as Smith. They found a loaded .38 caliber pistol and a sock filled with sand. Smith was sent to the police station and Officer Reival waited in the alley. When three men returned, the Aberdeen soldiers said they'd been told by the other soldier he'd take them to meet some girls.

The third serviceman, identified as Heistand, carried an empty holster. Heistand was then taken to police headquarters.

Woolsey and Browne said they had $83 between them when lured to the alley.

Business Session Set
Court Cardinal Gibbons will hold his monthly business session tonight when they noticed a soldier standing in an alley.

Sen. Hill's Education Bill Gets Help

WASHINGTON—Within a few hours after its introduction, 26 of his colleagues had joined Senator Lister Hill in sponsoring his comprehensive aid-to-education bill.

Hill wants to spend three billion dollars in six years for education at all levels and teaching facilities. The Eisenhower Administration has proposed to spend one billion dollars in four years to improve teaching and help science students.

Hill goes well prepared into the battle for his ideas to meet the crisis in education. He is chairman of the Senate Labor and Education Committee and accepted leader of the Democratic majority on this issue.

TWO Republicans have signed up to help—Senators William Jenner of North Dakota and Senator Irving M. Ives of New York. Ives is second-ranking Republican of the Hill committee and, if re-elected next fall, will become its first with the retirement of Senator H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey.

The Ives support also gives Hill an apparent majority on his committee. Of its six Democrats, five have signed as sponsors. A Democratic vacancy caused by the recent death of Senator Matthew M. Neely of West Virginia is due to be filled by Senator Ralph Yarborough of Texas who has already put his name on the legislation. With Ives, the bill would then have seven member-sponsors in the 13-man committee.

THE OUTLOOK for an education bill in the House has been clouded by the openly expressed pessimism of Speaker Sam Rayburn and Republican leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. Representative Carl Elliott of Alabama, fifth-ranking Democrat on House Education and Labor, is its sponsor there.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is also singing the blues. It seems to believe that the competition in ideas and demands for money will result in a compromise.

A LEGISLATOR of long experience, Hill disagrees. He points out that the big stumbling block at this point is not money but the sincerely felt fear on the part of many that Federal help means Federal control. He feels that members of Congress who do not want to move in this area would oppose a small bill as quickly as they would a large one.

As his bill shows, he believes the situation demands a grand design. Any program concentrating only on scholarships will, he argues, mean only that holders of scholarships will apply to schools which, for lack of teachers and facilities, must turn them away.

HILL IS already holding hearings on the broad subject of science and education. Two eminent scientists, Edward Teller, father of the H-bomb, and Werner von Braun, the rocket expert, have testified solemnly that "national survival" depends first of all on expanded and improved education.

A stumbling block in any education bill is always the question of segregation. His bill is so framed by Hill, an Alabamian, that the issue is avoided and he has the promise of Northern colleagues that they will not inject it. The President has also taken the attitude that segregation should be separated from education legislation.

H-Bomb Energy Meeting Fazes Reporter

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—That two-hour press conference—when the Atomic Energy Commission announced progress in developing power from the hydrogen bomb reaction—was the darndest thing since Henry Wallace tried to explain the principles of the Progressive party back in 1948.

All the scientific news has now been milked out of it. But the memory lingers. It just shows you what the newspaper business is coming to in the next thermo-nuclear age of man.

Get the picture. Here was AEC Chairman Lewis Strauss. He was surrounded by a score of the top scientists brought in from Los Alamos, N. M., Livermore, Calif., and Princeton, N. J.

Mostly they were blue-eyed types, with dreams in them of vast new worlds to explore in the cosmos. And their voices were so soft; they had constantly to be urged, "Louder."

FACING THEM—nearly 100 reporters. The old rule in this business was that you never sent a reporter on a story if he knew anything about it. For if he knew anything about it he would write an "expert" story that none of the readers could understand. All that's changed now. And the questions these science reporters can ask are harder to understand than the answers. The result, in this case, was a circus of confusion.

Chairman Strauss said he would just answer a few policy questions and then turn the conference over to the scientists. That's what he thought. Forty-five minutes and 36 pages of transcript later, they let him up to go catch his plane.

In what AEC people said later was the most hostile press conference in their hallowed halls and memory, reporters beat the chairman over the head on the two questions they could all understand.

"A. Was this a scientific breakthrough that was being announced?" and "B. Were the British scientists ahead of the American scientists in discovering what was in their joint report?"

DOGGEDLY, Strauss tried to maintain that this was no breakthrough. It was just a major step forward. This wasn't a horse race, he insisted. But then he said the teams were neck and neck.

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK—Although I have not consulted any psychiatrists in the matter, there seems to be a growing conviction among otherwise acceptable people that to have had a happy childhood is to have had some sort of loathsome and suspicious disease.

Only the other night, in a gathering of educated and seemingly undisturbed persons, a lady of international stature turned like a wasp on my bride and snarled: "You sound like someone who had a happy childhood!"

My bride said: "I did!" and from the looks on people's faces you would have thought she had said something obscene and unforgivable.

DISCUSSING this, and similar encounters, on the way home it occurred to me that the time has come to put together a little junta of theatre folk who had happy childhoods with the aim of bringing us idiots together twice a year or so for nothing more unlawful than a momentarily happy time.

I say theatre folk because I associate with them more than with any others, but if persons in the writing, book, magazine and essay worlds wish to become honorary members they are more than welcome. Painters, too. And even sculptors.

We thought it might be more orderly, at first, to include only people in the creative arts. The name of the organization would be something like "We Had Happy Childhoods and You Can Lump It" or "Happy Childhoods Anonymous."

In the latter case it would be a misnomer. It is not going to be a skulking, anonymous club. At this point, I hasten to say I will not be the treasurer and this item is not designed to flush coin out of anyone's pockets.

I DON'T KNOW what special benefit or gift to the psyche it is to have had an unhappy childhood, but our local woods are strewn with militant men and women who lose no opportunity to inform all within hearing that they had unhappy childhoods and they are the better for it.

Why are they the better for it? Did it firm their souls or put steel into their characters? Possibly. Equally possible, this same firmness and steel might have resulted from happy childhoods.

The organizational plan of the new club is simplicity itself. We aim to collect a group of adults who had happy childhoods and for this condition they can pay into the treasury a relatively modest sum per month.

When the treasury has accumulated enough funds to pay for a party, we'll all have a party. That's all. The aim is neither noble nor formidable. I just think that in this world, apparently alien to those with happy childhoods behind them, we ought to stick together and when we can afford it throw a terrific party. Sort of an idiots' delight party.

We'll have good food and beverages and maybe a little music and talk about nothing but how good we had it before we were 15 years old—or maybe 17 would be better.

NATURALLY, there will be infiltration by deviants and victims of pitiful childhoods. But I think I pretty much know what players, playwrights, directors and producers in our theatre had happy childhoods and phonies can be spotted quickly enough.

I know a composer who had a hideous childhood, and he will never get beyond the door to the party-room. He claims his wracking childhood made him the great musician he is, but I doubt it and always have. He seems to me simply to be a poseur. I think he would have written good music and he does write good music if his childhood had been a merry round of joy.

A DRAMATIST of considerable renown is an open confessor that his childhood was miserable, and his plays certainly bear out his claim. They teem with unsavory and semi-destroyed individuals rushing at the work of completing the destruction.

Obviously, this fellow is not a candidate for the club and I'm sure he never would apply for membership, but he can be a charming man when he wishes and I choose to think that if his childhood had been flawless his talents would have been no less blazing.

If any of you boys and girls of the New York theatre want to join, send me a card. No money. We'll appoint as treasurer some man or woman who had just one experience in childhood with a touch of gall and vinegar to it. He or she would make an ideal treasurer. When enough of you have joined and paid, we'll have a party—the darndest party you ever went to! All blithe spirits!

Frederick Othman

Long, Low, Wide And Heavy

WASHINGTON—Harlow H. Curtice, the world's biggest builder of automobiles, says people like their sedans long, low, wide, and heavy.

He's not counting on Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York, Senator Prescott Bush, Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, a fellow named Othman, and possibly a few others who'd like a couple of feet chopped off their buggies.

We'd also appreciate having 'em built a little taller so we wouldn't knock off our hats getting in, but I suppose we'd better forget these hopes.

The gray-haired president of General Motors, who is an exceedingly persuasive gentleman in a pleasant sort of way, says he builds motor cars to the specifications of the millions who buy them.

THE SENATE subcommittee under Estes Kefauver hauled in Curtice to ask him whether he had joined with the other two leading auto builders in rigging prices. He said he didn't. He said, in fact, that the composite General Motors four-door sedan cost $125 more to build this year than last and that he's boosted prices only $74. He produced photos of the 1958 Chevrolet Bascayne sedan and compared them to pictures of the 1948 Chevy Fleetmaster. He said the present car in all ways was better than the one of 10 years ago.

It weighs 324 pounds more; it is almost 12 inches longer and five inches wider. It is nine inches lower and it has more hip and shoulder room, front and rear. It does have a little less headroom.

"YOU SAY it is longer, wider and heavier," interrupted O'Mahoney. "Have you received any complaints from people who believe these very things are disadvantages?"

Curtice smiled. The Senator said he'd noticed that it was becoming increasingly difficult to park a car around the Senate Office Building. He said this may have been because the Senators were calling in too many witnesses, but he did believe it might be caused partly by the size of their vehicles. He asked finally: "Do you think the modern car is too big?"

"No, I don't," Curtice replied. "Cars have attained their present dimensions as a result of popular demand."

CURTICE makes surveys of these matters. He must know what he's talking about, but I still claim no General Motors man ever has asked my opinion of fish tails replacing mudguards.

"Isn't there an increasing demand for smaller cars?" O'Mahoney said.

The Senator said he understood better than 300,000 small European cars were expected to be imported here this year.

"Do you plan to build a small car in the United States?" the Senator demanded.

"OVER THE years that has been under constant study," Curtice said. "Thus far it has not been economic to offer a small car. That is because you take the value out of it so much more rapidly than you do the cost of it."

He meant building a door for a small car was almost as costly as for a big. Ditto engines and everything else that goes into automobiles.

Maybe later he'll change his mind, but this isn't much consolation for citizens with 1958 autos and 1929 garages.

Medicine Men

DESPITE his villainy, the old-fashioned medicine man was frequently a welcome visitor to the small towns where he stopped.

There was something exciting about the fervor with which he sold his snake oil, the wildly extravagant promises he made: "You will be the first to purchase a bottle of this highly efficacious medicine, balm to the suffering, new life to the feeble!" A formula imparted by the mystics of the East—a bargain at four times the price.

The coming of the Pure Food and Drug Acts put an end to the activities of the medicine man, and it was good riddance. For all the color he added to the American scene he did a great deal of damage. Yet a recent news story, datelined Washington, indicated that the old time charlatan is reappearing in modern dress.

Federal authorities are investigating the fraudulent claims of some manufacturers of patent medicines. These claims range from promises that you can lose weight without dieting to assurances that certain pills are "astounding discoveries" for the treatment of gout, arthritis, and rheumatism.

National advertising groups, made up of people in the advertising profession with a high sense of ethics, are co-operating with federal authorities in stopping such rackets. There are few more vicious schemes than those which raise false hopes in the hearts of people who suffer the fear and pain that comes with disease.

The public, too, can do a great deal to stop the profits of the phony pill and potion peddlers. We need not take every claim at its face value. When there is doubt, a simple check with a good doctor can end all guesswork. Those who would endanger people's health for the sake of profit are despicable. We all have a responsibility for stopping them cold.

Reporter's Notebook

NEW YORK—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That if you are worried about the fact your dollar buys less, it might console you to know that George Washington had the same kind of trouble. He lost about $30,000 during the Revolutionary War through a depreciation of money.

That the Pacific Ocean is considered to be the oldest of the earth's vast bodies of water. And that fish which live in the deepest parts of the ocean are usually the poorest swimmers.

That the full moon is nine times as bright as the half moon.

That beauty queens are getting taller. Grace Downs, director of a contest to pick Miss New York State, found the entrants averaged 5 feet 7, the height of the average doughboy in World War I.

THAT IT'S A GOOD idea to stand on your feet when being measured for a new pair of shoes because your toolies are larger when the weight of the body is on them.

That the greeting card industry expects to sell 300 million Valentines this month. One $15 model has a music box that tinkles "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

That the traveling salesman now has to travel farther to make his sales. A survey showed that those who journey by auto averaged 2,006 miles last June, 2,419 miles last December.

That the hand that rocks the cradle threatens to rule the ballot box. American women now out vote men, and in India's last election nearly half the votes were cast by women.

THAT FUR SEALS never take a drink. They absorb the water they need through their pores.

That wassail, traditionally a bowl of spiced ale served at Christmas, comes from an old English toast: "Be whole" or "Be of health."

That the Royal Canadian Mounted Police have fitted red reflectors in their horse's hoofs so that headlights can pick them out at night.

That some Manhattan kids now are insisting their parents buy them two space helmets. The extra one is for their pet dog. That, Henry Castello, an ex-machine gunner for the Army who operates the Press Box Restaurant, tells of the golfer who kept his buddies waiting a half hour on the greens. The golfer apologized breathlessly: "Sorry I'm late—I got married this morning."

WASHINGTON—The new compact to exchange people, culture, and entertainment with the Russians is fraught with hope. It has tremendous potentialities for peaceful co-existence. If we could only send them some of our television programs we could clutter up their minds so they couldn't concentrate on weapons of destruction.

Unlimited possibilities lie in our week-end horror shows alone. If we could send them upon the children of the Soviet Union we could stultify that country's future generations and enable us to catch up.

We could render them so loggy they would be glad to peacefully co-exist so they wouldn't be torn from their television sets. Instead of cramming themselves with dangerous science, all they would want to do is get back to the gory romance of Frankenstein's unblinking little bride.

Their educational horizons would be broadened immeasurably. They would learn that "The Mummy's Hand" is not the one that rocks the cradle.

Every weekend in this more-advanced land we have late, and late late, horror shows that keep the kiddies up later than the bars keep open for adults in the nation's capital. We have "Shock," "Horror," "The Creeper," "The Invisible Man" and vintage movies that are horrible without even trying. The Russian youngsters would probably be so entranced they wouldn't even stick their heads out the window to look at a third Sputnik.

IN THE REALM of culture we could distract Russians of all ages from warlike thoughts. The National Symphony Orchestra opened its fund-raising drive the other night with a thing in which I interviewed Dr. Howard Mitchell, the conductor. If we could have beamed it to the Russians they would have been so stupefied they wouldn't have been able to think about anything, much less an arms race.

I felt so out-of-place and ill-at-ease I started asking the celebrated musical genius unmusical questions such as "Are you really the head guy of this combo?" and "How did you get into this racket?" Then I heard myself asking, "Wouldn't the National Symphony musicians play just as well if they ignored that stick you branched at them and just read the music?"

With unearthly forbearance, Dr. Mitchell replied that the sole duty of a conductor is to confuse the orchestra. Everybody in the hall guffawed intellectually, so I guess he must have been kidding.

If the Russians had heard that, they'd have welcomed a "break-through" in only one place—the ice.

THE U. S. - U. S. S. R. Pact also calls for an exchange of persons, and there we could really triumph. One of the swaps on the agenda is the Philadelphia Symphony for the Bolshoi Ballet. This might not excite universal interest here. Many of our Brooklyn constituents confide they'd prefer a trade of the Los Angeles Dodgers for the Siberian Wolfhounds, who finished second in the Midnight Sun League.

The Russians have many art forms, and competent practitioners, but how are they formed by ecadysts? "Ecadyst," I am a teacher, my dancing and deportment per. An exchange that would provide them with this art form should enhance understanding by stripping away secrecy.

On several occasions, our State Department has sent abroad Tom Two Arrows, exponent of Indian folklore. It might send him again to regale the Russians with how the Indians chased the Ku Klux Klan in North Carolina.

But, if we really want to impress our newfound trading partners, we should launch a deal direct from the rocket pad, and send them our only remaining member of the peerage—Count Down.

He told the delegates that the convention should find its theme not only in the spiritual segment of man's life but with the whole of his life.

One-Way Ride To Jail
CLIFTON FORGE, Va. (AP) — Marion D. Shaw was successful when he hitchhiked a ride — but it turned out to be a one-way ride back to jail. Shaw slipped out of the jail while it was being cleaned. The next day he was hitchhiking a ride when Game Warden Forest Banks drove by. Banks recognized Shaw, picked him up and drove him back to jail.

"Rumpelstiltskin" Show Termed Dull By O'Brian

By JACK O'BRIAN
NEW YORK — (INS) — "Rumpelstiltskin" was pretty dull. Now that "Maverick" has chopped it out of top contention, the Steve Allen Show tried to spoof the ratings, namely...

Jonathan Winters was funny enough in his two Pavarotti weeks but he needs someone like Paar as a firm foil for his unfettered nonsense...
Paar returns tonight with "Mr. John" as his guest, and we comment on the basis of the same hatter's last TV interview...

Assistant Roads Head Airs Revenue Needs

CHARLESTON, S.C. — Assistant Road Commissioner George E. White has issued a statement aimed at clearing up "any misunderstanding the Legislature, or an effort standing on the part of some to stampee it."

White said the curtailment "in the Road Commission has sub-tended no animosity toward the Legislature" and was issued as late as Friday because it was only Senate President Bean (D-Hardy) then that the first firm indication and House Speaker Flannery (D-Logan) said Saturday that Road given.

The curtailment followed a declaration by the majority Democrats that they were unwilling to provide additional revenues for state roads this year.

Their declaration had an "immediate bearing upon present engineering preparations and staffing activities" and called for the prompt notification of district officers than plans would have to be changed, White said.

White said that on Jan. 28 the commissioner told the legislative subcommittee on roads that approximately $49,975,000 in additional funds would be needed for an average year during the 10-year period ahead to carry out the governor's road program.

But for the first year, 1958, much of the "backbone" program could only be obligated, not expended, and 10 million dollars in bonds could be sold, White continued.

Consequently, only about 18 million dollars in additional funds would be needed in 1958, as the commissioner told the subcommittee representative, Sen. Martin (D-Berkeley), on Jan. 29, White said.

"These same figures were then again publicly offered to the Legislature in the hearing of Jan. 30. Therefore, the commission's figures have been continuously consistent," he summed up.

In his statement White also answered charges by the two Democratic leaders that an announced

Hercules Sales Increase Listed

Hercules Powder Company reports net sales and operating revenues of $245,265,000 for 1957. This was an increase of four per cent over 1956, according to the company's 1957 annual report to stockholders. Sales for 1956 were $235,903,000.

Net income after all charges was $18,116,000, equal to $2.14 a share of common stock. This represents a slight increase from 1956 when net income totaled $17,703,000, equal to $2.13 a share of common stock.

Common dividends were $1.10 a share, the same as last year.

"The year just ended was one of progress for Hercules," Albert E. Forster, president and board chairman of Hercules, said in his report to the stockholders. One factor which affected Hercules' earnings, Forster said, was the completion of a number of new plants during 1957 with their products reaching the market too late in the year to contribute to the company's overall business.

The pharmacist must prepare a label containing the prescription number, date, name and address of patient, and important how to take instructions. County Issues Nine Permits For Building

The Allegany County Assessing Department issued nine building permits during January with a total cost of construction estimated at $30,000.

That was the slowest start for its territory inspecting operations in the four years, but a tabulation of building permits has been made. Last year, there were 16 permits for construction costing $2,054,970, but the $2,000,000 was for a Winchester Road shopping center which has not materialized. In January, 1956 there were 10 permits for $83,550 and in 1955 the first month had 19 permits for $81,350.

Only two new dwellings were included in the January permits. The January permits include a summer cottage, chicken coop, corn crib and shed, enclosing a porch, enlarging a kitchen and remodeling a house for apartments.

The January permits outside of Election District 29 include one each in District 1, Little Orleans; 2, Oldtown; 3, Flintstone; 5, Hainsfurther, manager of Works 7 of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company; 20, Corriganville; 21, Eckhart.

Area Firemen Protest Use Of Snow Plow

The Allegany-Garrett Firemen's Association met yesterday in the Barton Fire Hall and went on record as being opposed to the present method of clearing snow by the Allegany County Roads Department.

Firemen from several units complained that state and county road plows, when opening roads and highways, pile snow in front of fire company driveways, blocking the fire equipment.

Firemen from some sections said this was done after the firemen had cleared their driveways, and in some sections, the plows dropped huge piles of snow in the driveways before firemen had a chance to clear them.

It was agreed that the proper officials should be requested to ask the snow removal equipment operators to try to clear the entrances to fire stations. The matter was referred to a committee headed by Felix Foote, with instructions to contact county commissioners and state roads officials.

Cromwell Zembower of LaVale and Jesse Jacobs of Frostburg were named to a committee to arrange for a fire school and demonstration to be held in the spring. An old building is needed which can be burned, and the site of the fire school will depend upon the location of the building.

The insurance committee reported that 26 member companies and 59 pieces of equipment have been included in the group accident insurance plan. This is two more pieces of equipment than were covered last year.

Paul Haberlein presided at the meeting.

Robert Brown, president, will be in charge of the meeting sponsored by the sportsmen's club.

Edwin M. Dale, Hagerstown, superintendent of the canal project, will be the principal speaker.

Restoration of the historic waterway and its development as a national park has been advocated by the club for a number of years, according to Ross F. Shaw, publicity chairman. Similar action has been taken, he said, by the Cresap Society.

The Senate last year adopted a bill sponsored by Senator J. Harbaugh and one-sixth each to their three children, Charles M. Harbaugh and Miss Ruth May Harbaugh, both of Hagerstown, and Mrs. Helen Harbaugh Stern, who lives in the Canal Zone. The will was dated March 14, 1950.

The other will probated was that of Mrs. Rebecca F. Davis, daughter, Miss Mary E. Davis, 12 Euclid Place, qualified as executrix under a $100 bond. Miss Davis was the sole beneficiary under the will dated August 8, 1955.

Winter's Deepest Snow Hits Area

Garrett County's Schools Closed For First Time In Three Years

The heaviest snowfall of the winter hit Garrett County and nearby high points in West Virginia over the weekend. The snow was so heavy in Garrett County, the State Roads Commission put into action for the first time this year its big rotary plow.

And for the first time in three years, the Garrett County Board of Education ordered schools closed for today.

The Oakland section received ten inches of snow during the night. This added to the seven and one-quarter inches that fell yesterday and Saturday night, brought the weekend's total to 17 1/4 inches.

27 Inches On Ground

The district SRC office said the accumulation on the ground in that section is 27 inches.

In the northern part of Garrett County at Accident, the SRC said five inches fell during the night and this morning, bringing a weekend total of nine and one-quarter inches, and an accumulation of 20 inches.

With the exception of Route 40, which was 20 per cent bare from Grantsville to Frostburg, and 10 per cent bare from Grantsville to the Pennsylvania line, all roads were covered.

The same held true in the Frostburg section where three more inches fell this morning and last night, to bring an accumulation of 11 inches. Visibility was reported poor in that vicinity because of the strong west wind blowing the snow today.

Only Trace Here

East of Frostburg there was from three-quarters of an inch at LaVale, to a trace in Cumberland, and a half inch in the eastern part of Allegany County.

While chains were necessary in all parts of the state west of Frostburg, the highways east of the Mountain City were in good condition and no chains were needed.

The SRC did report that there was two-way traffic on all highways in Garrett County.

There was real winter weather today west of Frostburg, as the snow was combined with 12 degree temperature at Oakland, 14 at Accident, nine at Big Savage, and 17 in the Mountain City.

Misses Rest Of State
Hagerstown received a light fall this morning, but elsewhere in the state it was not enough over the ground.

Cherry, Pendleton, Randolph and Pocahontas counties in western Virginia were the hardest hit in that state.

The West Virginia SRC Bureau of Highway Information reported 12 to 18 inches of snow in Tucker County with the road between Thomas and Harmon closed. U. S. 33 was closed at intervals because of drifts in Pendleton County.

There was up to 12 inches in Preston County, but the Eastern Panhandle had the lightest snow fall in the state. However, winds were producing drifts on secondary routes.

More Cold Forecast
The winter weather will stick around, according to the forecasts for both Western Maryland and West Virginia.

Allegany and Garrett counties are to be cloudy, windy and cold with snow flurries tonight. The low by morning is to be between 12 and 20 degrees.

Tomorrow and Wednesday is to be partly cloudy and continued cold with snow flurries in the mountains.

The bureau said that West Virginia temperatures through Saturday will average five degrees below normal, with continued cold tomorrow and Wednesday. Lee Gilpin, James W. Bolyard and a warning trend toward the end of the week.

Normal for northern W. Va. is 33 degrees, and 36 for the south.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan said today the Police Department made 961 arrests and collected $1,167 in fines. The Fire Department responded to 29 calls. Fire damage was minor.

Industrial Boulevard Condemnation Cases Set

A total of $925 has been offered to a number of persons who jointly own a tract. They are Benjamin and Mari I. Divico, Aidel Divico, Anna Marie Pallone, Albert Pallone, Julia Ann Bartone, Eugene Bartone, Ermelinda McCullough and William McCullough.

Urban Bond Issue Vote Set June 17

Council Decision Enters Nearly Year Of Legal Maneuvering

The Mayor and Council today voted to place the $500,000 urban development bond issue on the ballot for the June 17 municipal election.

Council passed the resolution unanimously.

The decision today climaxed nearly a year of legal maneuvering which saw petitions filed asking a referendum and court suits both in Allegany County Circuit Court and the Maryland Court of Appeals. The latter ruled on the validity of the issue January 20.

Proceeds from the issue would go for street improvements, paving, construction, bridge construction, land acquisition in conjunction thereto, contributions to public projects in city where the federal and state governments participate including the Industrial Boulevard and Cumberland Thruway.

Voting Machine Amendment
Council today also authorized City Attorney Thomas B. Finan to prepare a charter amendment providing for the use of voting machines in all future elections of the city including special, primary and general.

Finan had written council that the next election in June will be the first conducted by the city since the advent of voting machines. He said there was one special election on the tax limitation proposal but the charter amendment provided voting by either machine or ballot. The special election was held under supervision of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors who conducted it according to the state law which permits voting machines. Machines were used in that election.

Will Avoid Challenge
The last primary was conducted by the city clerk although facilities of the Election Board were used. The municipal ballot is supervised by the board.

In view of this, Finan said he recommended the amendment for voting machines to avoid any possible challenge to the validity of the forthcoming city elections.

WEATHER IDEAL—Typical

Garrett County wintry weather predominated yesterday during the Maryland State Skiing Championship Races sponsored by the Western Maryland Ski Club yesterday and Saturday at Marsh Hill Mountain at McHenry on Deep Creek Lake. William Wayne Kesner, Springfield, was sentenced to 60 days in the Mineral County Jail and fined $30 after being found guilty this morning of a motor vehicle violation by a Mineral County Circuit Court jury.

Judge Ernest A. See sentenced the man after the jury returned a guilty verdict on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor.

Kesner was not in court when the case started, but arrived as the jury was returning its verdict. He informed Judge See that he has been working in Washington and was late getting to Keyser this morning.

In another case this morning, Robert C. Shaffer, Franklin, was paroled for three years after pleading guilty to stealing two automobile tires and copper wire from the Western Maryland Railway Company near Ridgeley.

The tires were owned by Justin P. Pressnell of Ridgeley.

Taylor was charged with assault on Louis Yoker, Baltimore, after he (Taylor) threw a stone at Yoker in a Deisel engine of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train.

Testimony in the case revealed that Yoker was sitting in the cabin of the locomotive at the railroad crossing in Keyser when the assault occurred.

Reilly said Bobo and seven other men were lifting approximately 600 pounds of material at the Luke Mill when one of the men lost his grip and the weight shifted causing the injuries to Bobo when the material was dropped.

A hearing in the case was held last August. Attorney for the company was Horace P. Whitworth Sr., Westport.

Police Hunt Jail Breakers At Oakland

Trio Sawed Bars From Window; Leave During Snow Storm

A 13-state alarm has been put out for three prisoners who sawed their way out of the Garrett County Jail in Oakland early yesterday morning.

At noon today Sheriff James Frantz said no word has been heard about the three since their escape in a heavy snowstorm.

Sheriff Frantz said one of the missing men is Earl R. Franklin, 32, of Johnson City, Tenn., who was awaiting action of the March grand jury on a safe-cracking charge.

Burglary Suspect

Franklin was charged with taking part in the $37,000 burglary at the F. G. Fox & Son Hardware Co. in Friendsville, Md., last July 29. The take included $25,000 in non-negotiable savings bonds.

The other two men who escaped were identified as Wayne E. Pigott, 34, of Oakland, held on a breaking and entering charge, and Arnold E. Sisler, 30, of Aurora, W. Va., accused of forging checks.

Sheriff Frantz said he checked the jail Saturday night and all the prisoners appeared to be asleep in their bunks. He discovered the trio missing when he opened the jail yesterday morning.

Lumped Up Bedding

He said they had lumped up their bedding and mattresses to make it appear they were sleeping. Three other prisoners in the same bullpen said they did not know how the three men broke out.

Franklin was arrested at Johnson City November 20 and returned to Garrett County two days later. Two other men have been convicted in the hardware store theft and are serving terms in the Maryland Penitentiary.

The three men were able to remove a screen and two bars on a window to the "bull pen" area, located on the ground floor of the jail.

Authorities were unable to say how the escapees cut the bars, a both of which were sawed through at the top of the window. One was cut nearly through at the bottom while the other bar apparently was broken off. The screen was bolted to rotted wood and was easily removed.

Took Belongings

Sheriff Frantz said the escaped prisoners took all their belongings with them when they squeezed through the opening in the window. However, a bundle of Franklin's clothes was found lying in the snow near the Court House about 100 yards from the jail. Nearby was a pocket Bible belonging to Sisler, Sheriff Frantz said.

The clothing bundle contained two pairs of trousers, some underclothes and handkerchiefs, and a shaving kit identified as Franklin's the sheriff explained.

All three of the men were dressed lightly, with no coats, and wearing low-cut shoes. The temperature dropped below 18 degrees during the night and snow in the area has reached a depth of six feet during the past 10 days.

Tracks Covered

New snow fell during Saturday night's storm, covering up tracks which may have been made during the escape.

It is believed a saw was passed through the window to the men by an accomplice who also was waiting with an automobile to aid their escape. Because of the adverse weather conditions during the night, authorities said the men would not have got far on foot.

A Frostburg man was seriously injured in a coal mine accident at Midland this morning.

It was reported that Loar was struck by a coal car inside of Ocean Mine 1 at Midland. The mine is operated by the Consolidated Fuel Company.

Loar reportedly was working inside the mine when the car jumped the tracks and struck him on the right side. He was pulled out of the mine by two fellow workers.

Police Chief Asks Support Of Council

Flynn Defends One-Way Traffic On Harrison Street

Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn today defended the decision to make a portion of Harrison Street one-way and told the Mayor and Council he thinks it is time for council "to stick up for" decisions made by the department.

Flynn spoke out after six business establishments in the area had asked rescinding of the order which made Harrison one-way between South Mechanic and South Centre streets. They said the plan diverts traffic going south and headed for the places know how the three men broke out.

Further and as a result cost of operation is increased. They also said the change was made without consultation with them.

Members of council did "stick up" for the department's decision with the six complainants and explain his reasons for the change as he did before council this morning.

Flynn said his department had had a number of requests to make Harrison Street one-way. He said he had worked traffic personally for a month to see what the situation was and "I think what we have done is a good move. It is time Council sticks up for the department. We have to please a majority and can't condescend to a minority," the chief added.

Members of council did "stick up" for the department's decision with the six complainants and explain his reasons for the change as he did before council this morning.

Flynn said traffic down South Mechanic and going to Centre had been blocked at the Centre-Harrison intersection. This was due, he said to the fact traffic from George Street seeking to continue into South Mechanic blocked the car on Harrison from making a left turn into Centre.

The light at Harrison and Centre allowed but two cars to come off Harrison Street, he said, while the line backed up onto South Mechanic Street. A driver trying to enter Harrison Street from South Liberty Street had to pull out and put the front end of his car on Harrison because his vision was blocked by a building at the intersection. The car following would also pull up and block traffic.

Flynn said if he had to buy gas and idle it away on Baltimore Street, he would be angry, too. He said such activity makes people moody and statistics show moody people are poor buyers.

Not Enough Policemen
Flynn also pointed out that where Harrison Street's one-way section could handle one line of 13 cars previously, there are two lines of 30 cars now and they are moving faster.

"When you do not have sufficient policemen, you have to do organized Cub Scout Pack 16 the next best thing," Flynn conducting a program at Johnson Heights School.

Demonstrations were presented by each of the eight dens in the new pack, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association of the school. William Scott is traffic personally a month before cubmaster of the organization.

John A. Jones Retires As Amcelle Engineer

The retirement of John A. Jones, section engineer in charge of the central engineering work of the Interscholastic Sportsman Award Committee in greater Cumberland, and he was the first Chairman of the original Celanese Athletic Association.

The father of two children, he and his wife reside at 104 Lute-man Road.

Replacing Jones as section engineer is John H. McNeill of 433 West Main Street, Romney. A graduate of West Virginia University, McNeill came to Amcelle January 15, 1951 as a Supervisor in the Engineering Department. He is a member of the Engineers' Club and Kiwanis Club of Cumberland. He is married to the former Frances Bradley.

If the football player of 1958 isn't faster than the average griddle of ten years ago, he should be. The present-day griddle can be equipped with tops weighing just half as much as those worn in 1948.

This was brought to light during the sixth annual sporting goods show of the Wilson Hardware Company yesterday at the Fraternal Order of Eagles Home.

Revolutionary changes have been made in equipment from head to foot in the past ten years and on display yesterday were items showing further sweeping changes in construction and weight. These are in helmets and shoes.

The helmet, made of plastic, is extremely light but regarded as the most protective football headpiece ever designed.

K. G. Red Waltham of the MacGregor Company said the helmet was developed in the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, Buffalo. Soft padding inside the shell is designed to cradle the head, thus eliminating shock from both angle and straight-on blows.

The helmet, weighing 25 ounces, as compared to 31 and 32 ounces of last season's models, was tested for three years, both in the laboratory and by collegiate football players in scrimmages and regular games. Not one helmet, Waltham said, was returned as broken.

In addition to producing more comfort for players, the helmet's contour provides better vision.

The new shoe is a low cut, reduced greatly in weight so as to add to a player's speed. It is made of a kangaroo leather, upper attached to a very light outsole with nylon steel-tipped cleats.

The shoe is so flimsy that the company can't guarantee it will last a single game, although in most cases a pair lasts a player the entire season.

Waltham calls it the "break-away" shoe because it was developed solely for use by the University of Oklahoma. Bud Wilkinson, the Sooners' shrewd coach who stresses speed and is always looking for ways to get that "extra step" on opponents, has also been using the tear-away jersey with a great degree of success.

Most coaches put the lowest shoes on only their ends and linebackers but Wilkinson outfits his entire team with them.

Although the biggest weight reduction is in shoes and helmet, other protective equipment has been getting steadily lighter as a result of the development of new materials. This includes shoulder, hip and thigh pads and knee guards.

Nylon pants and jerseys are also lighter, making it possible to outfit a player this year with only seven pounds of equipment. Ten years ago, a player was weighted down with 14 pounds.

Another item catching the eye of coaches attending the show was a new leather football developed by MacGregor.

A special tanning process makes the ball rain repellent. In fact, its gripping quality improves when it's wet. Waltham demonstrated this by immersing the ball in a bucket of water.

The new ball will undoubtedly cut down on the number of fumbles in games played on rain-soaked grids. "It's the closest thing to a ball with a handle that I've ever seen," Waltham declared.

Yesterday's show was attended by 250 persons, including the majority of scholastic and collegiate coaches in the area.

Movies of the 1957 Maryland-Miami football game were sent here by Roy Lester, freshman coach at the University of Maryland, and the "World Series Highlights of 1957" film was sent by Hillerich and Bradys, manufacturers of the Louisville Slugger bat.

W. O. "Buster" Smith, Vait Rubber Company, Los Angeles, and Bob Canning, of the Ace Reconditioning, Burgettstown, Pa., were among the firms' representatives in attendance.

Other lines featured in the display were by Powers Manufacturing Company, Butwin Sports-wear Company, Johnson and Johnson and Cramer Chemical Company.

Kansas' New Top Rating To Get Test Tonight

W. Virginia Replaced As No. 1 Team In INS Poll

By FRED DE LUCA

NEW YORK — INS — College basketball has new leaders for team and individual honors today — Kansas and Elgin Baylor of Seattle — but each is in front only by the narrowest of margins.

Kansas barely managed to replace West Virginia as the nation's No. 1 team in the latest International News Service nationwide survey, and only .02 of a percentage point separates Baylor from Wilt Chamberlain of Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson in third place .03 of a percentage point off the pace.

Kansas starts its new reign with a very stern test tonight, when fourth-ranked Kansas State invades Lawrence, Kas. The Jayhawks are banking on Chamberlain to repeat the 33-point performance he turned in when Kansas whipped Kansas State by 14 points in December.

Such an outburst would serve two purposes. It would move Kansas to within a half-game of State in the Big Eight Conference race and it would lift Chamberlain ahead of Baylor in the scoring race.

As things now stand, Baylor has an average of 32.44 points a game, followed by Chamberlain with 32.42 and Robertson with 32.35. Robertson fell from the lead when he was "held" to 27 points by Duquesne Saturday.

Baylor scored 60 and then 43 points in a pair of games against Portland. His spurge moved him into the top 20 along with Xavier of Ohio. The two new entries replaced Wichita and Memphis State.

The elite lined up this way: 1. Kansas 12.2; 2. West Virginia 15.1; 3. Kansas State 14.1; 4. Cincinnati 15.2; 6. Oklahoma State 13.2; 7. Temple 14.2; 8. Bradley 12.3; 9. North Carolina 13.3; 10. Dayton 16.2.

Second ten: 11. North Carolina State 12.3; 12. Kentucky 14.4; 13. Michigan State 11.3; 14. Illinois 11.3; 15. Xavier 13.4; 16. Arkansas State 12.4; 17. Notre Dame 12.4; 18. St. John's of N.Y. 9.2; 19. Oregon State 13.4; 20. Seattle 12.4.

Kansas State warmed up for its encounter with Kansas by grinding out an 83-54 win over Colorado Saturday. San Francisco routed Pepperdine, 105 to 59, to set a school scoring record and tie a conference mark.

Robertson was held to seven points in the first half by Duquesne but broke loose in the second half to lead Cincinnati to a 72-61 win.

Oklahoma State humiliated St. Louis, 65 to 34, and Temple battered St. John's, 81 to 58, for the Owls' 13th straight win, the longest active streak among major college teams.

Bradley disposed of Notre Dame, 81 to 70, and North Carolina rode over South Carolina, 115 to 88. Dayton won its ninth in a row, thumping Eastern Kentucky, 75 to 43.

Lou Puccio's jump shot with three seconds to play gave North Carolina State a 66-64 win over Clemson, and kept State tied with North Carolina for the Atlantic Coast Conference lead.

Michigan State whipped Minnesota, 88 to 64, and took over the Big Ten lead. Maryland beat Navy, 64 to 51, and Xavier downed Loyola of Chicago, 63 to 54.

Arkansas, the Southwest Conference kingpin lost to Southern Methodist, 49 to 46, and Oregon State was surprised by Stanford, 69 to 57.

Yesterday's show was attended by 250 persons, including the majority of scholastic and collegiate coaches in the area.

Movies of the 1957 Maryland-Miami football game were sent here by Roy Lester, freshman coach at the University of Maryland, and the "World Series Highlights of 1957" film was sent by Hillerich and Bradys, manufacturers of the Louisville Slugger bat.

TEACHER LEARNS HOW—Sammy Lisanti, a teacher at Columbia Street School, gets a lesson in putting from Melvin (Buddy) Rice, veteran local golf teacher, at yesterday's sixth annual sporting goods show of the Wilson Hardware Company. Rice was busy throughout the afternoon demonstrating various golfing techniques. The affair, held at the Fraternal Order of Eagles, attracted 250 people. (See Tapping on the Sports Page.)

D. C. Skiers Dominate Marsh Mountain Event

Four of the five events in the second yesterday in the men's first Maryland State skiing championships yesterday on the Marsh Mountain slope at McHenry were taken by representatives of the Washington Ski Club.

Rick Marshall, a Canadian now living in Washington, won yesterday's major test, the men's expert downhill race. He beat Ben Greysted by more than a second in the most exciting of the races during the two-day affair.

Shirer, another Washington skier, by way of Vienna, finished third in a second behind Greysted. A turnout of approximately 1,200 spectators witnessed the races, sponsored by the Western Maryland Ski Club.

Stan Friedberg, Pittsburgh, captured the intermediate downhill, and Ellen Hughes, of Washington, took the women's expert downhill, thereby shutting out Maryland skiers from the top prizes.

The state had but one winner, Marilyn Greysted, in the whole tourney and that came Saturday in the women's expert slalom.

Kline Runnerup

Glen Kline, a student at Potomac State College, was the only Cumberlander to receive a trophy in yesterday's trials. Kline covered the course in 27 seconds for the intermediate downhill race to finish as runnerup to Stan Friedberg by a second.

In third place was J. K. Beech while Joseph Hutchinson was fourth. Both are from Pittsburgh.

Yesterday's events were run in heavy snow flurries that continued all afternoon. The flurries Saturday night and yesterday deposited an additional 3 to 4 inches to the deep covering already existing in Garrett County, westernmost county in the State.

The blinding snow and fast course helped cause spills among the intermediate racers, and even Clemson, and kept State tied with North Carolina for the Atlantic Coast Conference lead.

Michigan State whipped Minnesota, 88 to 64, and took over the Big Ten lead. Maryland beat Navy, 64 to 51, and Xavier downed Loyola of Chicago, 63 to 54.

Dunkel Lists Small College Power Index

By Dunkel Research Service

"But I've never even heard of Anderson," complains an Eastern reader. Which probably means to him, that Anderson, if not a hoax, at least can't be any good at basketball.

Anderson now tops the nation's small college with a Power Index of 67.1.

This column is an old smeller of hoaxes. Fifteen years ago we snatched on the perpetrators of the phony "Plainfield Teachers." Caswell Adams then wrote his famous poem about that phantom college.

From this impeccable background let us report that Anderson, Ind., College (enrollment 915) is not only real, but also champion of the Hoosier conference, a long-time terror among Midwestern smallies, and a frequent winner of NAIA tournaments.

The present team, probably Anderson's best, had a 15-2 record through last Wednesday. It had set a net scoring superiority of 19.4 points per game over opposition self-indexed at 47.7 for a total rating of 67.1.

Since two big post-season tournaments await the small college leaders as well as their large brethren, we'll rank the two groups separately from now on. Through January 29 Cincinnati headed the big boys with a 25.1 margin over 57.2 opposition for an 82.3 rating. First 40 in each class were:

Polo Grounds May 'Go To The Dogs'

NEW YORK — (INS) — The Giants are gone and now the Polo Grounds may go to the dogs. An organization calling itself "The Western Racing Inc." hopes to stage dog races at the former home of the baseball Giants.

The plan depends on the fate of a bill introduced in the New York State Legislature by assemblyman Bernard Austin—a Brooklyn Democrat—to legalize dog racing in New York State.

Breedlove Heads Linemen To Report To Grid Drills

By The Associated Press

Duke and North Carolina open spring football practice next Saturday, and the six other Atlantic Coast Conference schools follow at intervals.

Maryland, the northernmost member, is the last to get going, on March 10. Conference and NCAA rules permit 20 sessions. In most instances the teams will work out four times a week. They will end the month-long drills with a squad game or a fullback to replace standout Jim Bakhtiar.

Here's each team's situation in a nutshell:
North Carolina State—seventeen lettermen are back, but among the 18 graduation losses are All America Dick Christy and another halfback, Dick Hunter. Coach Earle Edwards' team won the conference title last year, but was ineligible for the Orange Bowl because State is on probation imposed by the NCAA for alleged basketball recruiting violations.

Duke—Coach Bill Murray expects a squad of 65, including 23 lettermen from the Orange Bowl crew. Halfback Wray Carlton is a prospect for individual honors. North Carolina—Drills open Feb. 10 and Coach Jim Tatum looks for continued improvement with many of last year's promising juniors and sophomores back. He will have the biggest ACC spring squad, 90, including 20 letter winners from the club which had a 4-3 league record last year for a third-place tie with Clemson and Maryland.

Clemson—Frank Howard will have 19 lettermen among the squad of 75 which starts work Feb. 17. Among the returnees are Harry White, last year's fine sophomore quarterback.

South Carolina—Halfback Alex Hawkins, already being boomed for all-conference honors, will be among the squad which Coach Warren Giese will greet Feb. 22. Twenty-five of last season's top 33 men are available.

Wake Forest—The Deacons and Coach Paul Amen can only look up from last year's record of 10 straight losses. About 32 of last year's squad and a like number from last year's freshmen will make up the squad reporting Feb. 17.

Virginia—Ben Martin has signed to coach the Air Force Academy, 1948.

Three-Foot Putt Wins For Venturi

PHOENIX, Ariz. —Ken Venturi of San Francisco sank a three-foot putt on the 18th green to win the $15,000 Phoenix Open.

"I've never been as nervous," he said. After dropping that putt worth $2,000 in fast money, he sailed his white cap into the madly screaming gallery of 7,000—the largest in the history of the Phoenix tournament.

Venturi, a 28-year-old with little more than a year of pro experience, won this 72-hole tournament the hard way. He started the final round with a 1-stroke lead over Jay Hebert, Stanford, Fla.

He saw that lead melt after the first nine under the heat of a sub-par round by Walter Burkemo, Franklin Hills, Mich., and the pressure of Hebert.

Burkemo clinched the finest round of the tournament as he dropped a 6-iron putt on No. 18 for a day's total of 65 — 6 under par for the 6,555-yard Phoenix Country Club course.

That gave him a total of 275 — a under par. He had started the round six strokes behind the leading Venturi.

Hebert missed a seven-foot putt on the final hole and finished in a tie with Burkemo.

Venturi was feeling off on 17. He said he knew what he needed to do — one birdie — and what he needed to win — two birdies.

He sank a four-foot putt to go one under on the par-4 17th and then the short nine on the 18th.

WVIAC Lead Of Wesleyan Seen In Peril

By The Associated Press

State Conference leader West Virginia Wesleyan stakes its unbeaten 15-0 loop record against dangerous Morris Harvey and high scoring West Virginia Tech in the top games of this week's cord involving leagues.

The Bobcats will tangle with Morris Harvey at Charleston Tuesday before invading Tech at Mont. Emory Wednesday. Wesleyan Coach Hank Ellis calls the two games as "the most important of the season for us."

Ellis recalled last year's invasion of Morris Harvey and Tech when the two teams knocked off the then high-riding Bobcats. Wesleyan had just snapped Tech's 13-game winning streak at Buckhannon and was on a five-game skid itself.

Must Get Boys Up

Although Wesleyan whipped Morris Harvey, 37-22, at Buckhannon earlier this season, Ellis is not taking the Golden Eagles lightly. "They're a much better ball club now than when we last played them," he said. "My big job is to get the boys up for the Morris Harvey game. The Tech game will take care of itself."

At Montgomery, extra bleachers have been installed to handle the anticipated overflow crowd. Coach Neal Baisi's team occupies the runner-up spot in the conference with a 14-0 record.

If Morris Harvey fails to beat Wesleyan, the game is a "must" for the Golden Bears. Wesleyan plays two more conference games than Tech. Tech and Wesleyan will play another match later this month at Buckhannon.

A split in the two-game series would, in all probability, give the title to Wesleyan since there is no one else in sight who appears to be able to handle the Bobcats of Morris Harvey.

Potomac Routed

In Saturday league action, Tech overwhelmed Alderson-Broaddus, 113-63, to enhance its scoring average — tops in the nation.

Bob Reynolds scored a layup in the last 32 seconds of the game to enable Glenville State to edge Concord, 22-26. Salem handed a 70-62 defeat to Davis & Elkins, which had four regulars out for disciplinary reasons. West Liberty routed Potomac State, 82-49.

This week's schedule with (X) denoting State Conference games.

Monday — Bluefield State at Fayetteville, N. C. Teachers Bethany at John Carroll, Norfolk State at W. Va. State, Wheeling at Steubenville, Ohio.

Tuesday — Bethany at Case, Bluefield State at Winston-Salem, N. C. Teachers, Fairmont at D. C. (X). Glenville at Salem (X). Wesleyan at Morris Harvey (X). Potomac at Shepherd (X). Waynesburg, Pa. at West Liberty. Rio Grande, Ohio at W. Va. State.

Wednesday — Wesleyan at W. Va. Tech (X). Bluefield State at North Carolina A & T, W. Va. State at A-B.

Hot Blue Devils Shoot For Fifth Triumph In Row

By The Associated Press

Duke's fired — up Blue Devils swarmed out on their lucky home court tonight to meet South Carolina in Atlantic Coast Conference basketball action.

The Devils, breathing flame after their 79-36 victory over Wake Forest Saturday, are gunning for their fifth straight win.

The Gamecocks are still smartly from their Saturday rout by University of North Carolina, 7th-ranked nationally. The Tar Heels, tied with North Carolina State for the ACC lead, flattened South Carolina 115-88.

Weekend play saw nationally 10th-ranked North Carolina State eke out a 56-54 victory over Clemson and Maryland played non-conference Navy and whipped the Middies 64-51.

Three-place Virginia ended its three-game losing streak by dumping Southern Conference's Virginia Military 73-69.

Duke's victory over the Deacons put the Devils into a tie for third place with Maryland and left Wake Forest at the bottom of the taking the Golden Eagles lightly.

The week's schedule:

Monday — South Carolina at Duke.

Tuesday — Duke vs. Clemson at Charlotte, N.C.; Virginia vs. N.C. State at Portsmouth, Va.

Friday — Maryland at Virginia.

Saturday — Duke at North Carolina, Maryland at Wake Forest, South Carolina at N.C. State.

Yankees See Johnson As Coming Star

Another in a Series on Kookies

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK 28—The New York Yankees, ever aware of the danger of over-publicity, shudder every time someone mentions the name of Deron Johnson. Private.

Johnson is not even listed on the Yankee roster but the strapping 6-2, 220-pound righthanded slugger who made a remarkable showing at Binghamton last year will receive a thorough inspection by the Yankee brass during spring training. The records show 26 home runs, a .310 average, 103 RBIs and other impressive data for his season in the Eastern League, in which he was the outstanding player.

On Denver Roster

Manager Casey Stengel says that Johnson is not being counted on for 1958. He is on the Denver roster. But that's what he said seven years ago about Mantle, a kid just out of the Western Association. Johnson, only in his second year in organized ball, became the first player in the 35-year history of the Triplets to clinch 25 home runs.

He batted .329 for Kearney of the Nebraska State League in 1956, hitting 24 home runs and driving in 78 runs in 63 games. He is regarded as a fine defensive outfielder and has been called an "other Enos Slaughter in the hustle department."

An outfield newcomer given a great chance to make the parent club is Norm Siebern, batting champion of the American Association with a .339 average, 45 doubles, 112 runs batted in and 24 home runs. The Denver grad, a left-handed hitter who had a pre-blossom trial with the Yankees, is Maryland's earliest thoroughbred.

Bowie Ready For Winter Race Meet

Bowie, Md., 28—

With spring more than just around the corner, Bowie Race Course takes a gamble on the weather by launching Maryland's earliest thoroughbred racing season next Saturday.

Chief attraction among the 10 stakes on tap will be the John B. Campbell Handicap at $100,000. Maryland's richest handicap race, it will be run on the final day of the 40-day meeting, March 29.

Among horses nominated for the Campbell are Wheatley Star, the 1957 season's champion, and 86 RBIs, scouts say the Yankee farm organization is not very rich in pitching material. The list of fresh mound material includes Jim Coates, who fanned 163 in 224 innings for Richmond while posting a 14-11 slate with a fine 2.65 earned run average.

He is regarded as a fine prospect, Riney Duren, 13-2 at Denver, with a strikeout per inning to his credit is another good-looking prospect.

A record $260,000 in added monies will be offered in the 10 stakes and a minimum $27,000 in daily wager distribution, Bowie officials hope to surpass the attendance and mutual handle in last year's 41-day meet, when 491,746 fans wagered $41,145,216.

Campanella Shows Steady Improvement

GLEN COVE, N. Y. — (INS)

Dodger catcher Roy Campanella still is making slow but steady progress along the road to recovery.

The 36-year-old backstop, who received a broken neck in an auto accident last Tuesday, was reported to be in "better" condition in yesterday's medical bulletin from Glen Cove Community Hospital.

Minor League Draft Choice Of Birds Signs

BALTIMORE 28—

Outfielder Bert Hamric, the lone minor league draft choice of the Baltimore Orioles last month, has been mailed in his signed 1958 contract.

The 29-year-old left-handed hitter was drafted from Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League, where he batted .291 in 114 games, clouted 19 home runs and drove in 56 runs. Hamric also played part of the 1957 season at Montreal of the International League, hitting .193 in 25 games.

(Fourth of a series)

By Ben Ulan

Harry Craft, who replaced Lou Boudreau as Kansas City manager last Aug. 7, brought his team home in seventh place. This was one notch higher than when he took over. Craft was rewarded with a one-year contract shortly after the close of the campaign.

Several of the A's triumphs can be attributed to Craft's maneuvers. In the following situation, his strategy helped win the ball game. Would you have done the same thing?

d. Order Lopez to try a steal of home?

(Other data: Hunter is batting only .195 for the season. But he has hit two homers off Wynn in this game. Tim Thompson and Bob Martin are the available lefty pinch-hitters.)

Result: B — Hunter works the squeeze bunt successfully, scoring Lopez. A's win 4-3 (Aug. 17).

Pirates Play Warriors In PVC Tonight

Three high school basketball contests, including one Potomac Valley Conference fray, are on tap tonight to begin the week's busy hoop schedule.

Paw Paw's Pirates will be at Wardensville to meet the Warriors for the first time in the PVC attraction with the Warriors hoping to slip back into a deadlock for second place by winning.

Still In Contention

Wardensville had its title ambitions stalled last week in being set down, 41-36, by Moorefield.

The Warriors, however, are still in contention with a 7-2 loop record. Paw Paw has won five of eight in the circuit while being 10-3 overall.

Piedmont is still on top in the league with its perfect 9-0 log. Circleville is runnerup with a 4-1 mark while Keyser and Wardensville share third place with 7-2 records.

Northern High of Accident will be host to Bayard's cagers and West Virginia School for the Deaf of Romney travels to Martinsburg to meet Hedgesville in tonight's other pair of trays.

Huskies Seek Sweep

Northern will be after a sweep of Bayard, the invaders having been beaten, 56-50, in their opener. The Huskies have split in a dozen starts while Bayard has won seven and lost five in 12 tries.

West Virginia Deaf has been able to win only three of 12 this season, one of the setbacks being a 74-59 drubbing by Hedgesville.

Check Shows Teacher Pay Hike Favored

By GEORGE BOWEN
ANNAPOLIS, Md. — The Legislature will give school teachers a state raise of $400 a year over Gov. McKeldin's veto if the question is put to it promptly after an advisory vote on Wednesday, an Associated Press survey indicated today.

But a broad undertone of reluctance sounded in the replies to the questionnaire with reservations about financing the raise by a tax on cigarettes. There were strong expressions of desire for further study of the situation.

However, House Speaker Luber (D-Balto 5th) and his Democratic floor leader Boone (Balto County) have said they intend to call for action on the vetoed bill early in the opening day of the next session.

Seek Postponement
Del. Kirkland (D-Anne Arundel) has said he will seek a postponement. He wants to submit an alternate plan of financing a state school teacher pay raise by collecting more sales taxes.

On the straight question of whether they would vote to override the governor's veto, 39 legislators replied they would to the AP questionnaire.

Only two are ready to sustain while nine of those answering were undecided. The bill received only one dissenting vote in the Senate when it passed last year.

Two developments since then have given many legislators pause for further consideration. The counties, as suggested by Gov. McKeldin, granted higher pay and cigarette tax situation has changed.

Raise Cigaret Tax
Baltimore City and Baltimore County raised their tax from 3 to 5 cents a pack of cigarettes. The state tax of 3 cents provided for in the vetoed school teacher bill would be additional. There was some hesitation in the first place about taxing tobacco for school salaries, but it gave way to the stronger feeling that something had to be done.

This attitude was typified by a reply from Del. Simpkins (D-Somerset) that he will vote to override the veto.

"I don't feel that the method of raising the money is the most desirable," he said, "but it was the only one the Senate would approve. It was this tax or nothing."

Everybody Should Pay
"Education is something that all people profit by and there is something that all people should pay for—not just the smokers."

"I feel the tax is poor, but will vote for it because I feel the need for the salary increase is quite urgent and if it's this or nothing, I'll take this."

Sen. Johnson (D-Cecil) said he also will vote to override but "I think there is some merit or validity in the governor's position that the local subdivisions are financially able to contribute more to the support of the schools."

Del. Latham (D-Talbot) feels "that we must override the governor's veto."

However, I am somewhat opposed to the methods employed by the teachers in using the present veto to require the county commissioners to increase their salaries. Most of the counties have done this on a temporary basis pending the decision on the veto.

Requires "Scrutiny"
"Now I understand that the teachers want the increases to become permanent and also want the increase provided by the bill. This situation requires careful scrutiny."

"If we increase the salaries on the state level, then we must increase taxes to pay for them, and then we should proportionately decrease the tax on the local level by eliminating the temporary increases granted during the past year."

A Republican Senator also said he was "resentful of the teachers' lobby" although "he may vote to override the governor's veto."

He was upset, he said, by learning "they will not be content with the forthcoming increase, but if this one is granted, they will be back again in 1959 asking for still another boost regardless of the economic conditions prevailing at that time."

Sample quotes from the bloc of undecided legislators included:

"I voted for the bill, but now I shall listen carefully to the debate."

"Whether or not counties should participate more in school teacher salaries, I have not yet decided."

"The bill leaves much to be desired and it seems to me a completely new bill would be much better."

"I intend to review that subject in the light of the actions of the respective subdivisions in granting pay increases."

"The imposition of additional cigarette taxes by Baltimore city and county changes the picture. So does the fact that many localities have made upward adjustments in salaries since last March."

Two Injured When Three Cars Crash

Two men were injured yesterday afternoon in a three-car collision along West Virginia Route 28, five miles south of Ridgeley.

Trooper Charles Oliver of the West Virginia State Police investigated both accidents.

He said a car driven by Melvin Cornwell, 29, of Romney, side-swiped another vehicle near the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club on Route 28. The automobile plunged off the highway and hit another parked car at a restaurant there, then hurtled 225 feet into an open field before stopping.

More than $2,000 in damage was done to the three cars.

Cornwell was unconscious when admitted yesterday to Memorial Hospital, here. He was released, however, in the afternoon.

A passenger in Cornwell's car, Larry Brown, 16, of RD 1, Keyser, sustained a lacerated thigh and injuries of the right shoulder. He is reported in "good" condition.

Operator of the second car in the collision was Miss Ruby A. Naughters, 22, of Schenectady, N. Y., who was driving an automobile owned by Kathleen Welsh of Cumberland. Miss Naughters and three other women in her car escaped injury.

The parked car, owned by Jerry O. Snyder, RD 1, Ridgeley, was unoccupied.

Dead Man Found Stuffed In Auto

BAITMORE — Baltimore police today investigated the death of a man whose body was found last night stuffed in the trunk of a car.

Papers taken from the Negro man's clothing bore the name Roosevelt Nicholson and listed a Baltimore address. He appeared to be about 25 years old, police said.

A traffic officer's investigation of the illegally parked car led to discovery of the body. Police said the man apparently had been struck over the head with a blunt weapon. Inside the car a blood-stained hammer and hat were found, officers said.

The car was tracked to a Baltimore woman who told police she had loaned it to Roosevelt Nicholson. Inside the car a blood-stained hammer and hat were found, officers said.
